Sailor Moon S

THE BEST STORIES FROM

SAILOR MOON

Sailor Neptune & Sailor Uranus

Part 1

Bunny and Mamoru discover an abandoned house. The only inhabitants are dozens of cats. A little girl is looking after them to the best of her ability.

The old house will be demolished soon, but what will happen to the cats? The little girl cannot take all of them home.

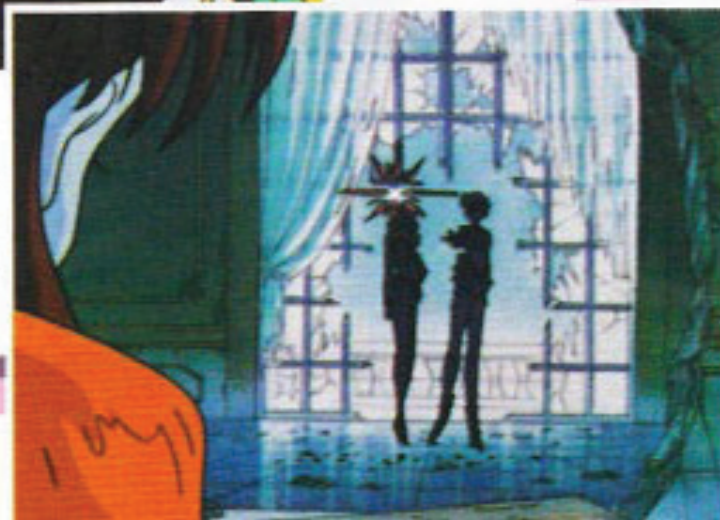

Someone else has set their eyes on this house: monsters created by a new enemy.

The cat woman is after the little girl, hoping to find a pure Heart Crystal in her heart. Bunny doesn't know about these crystals yet.

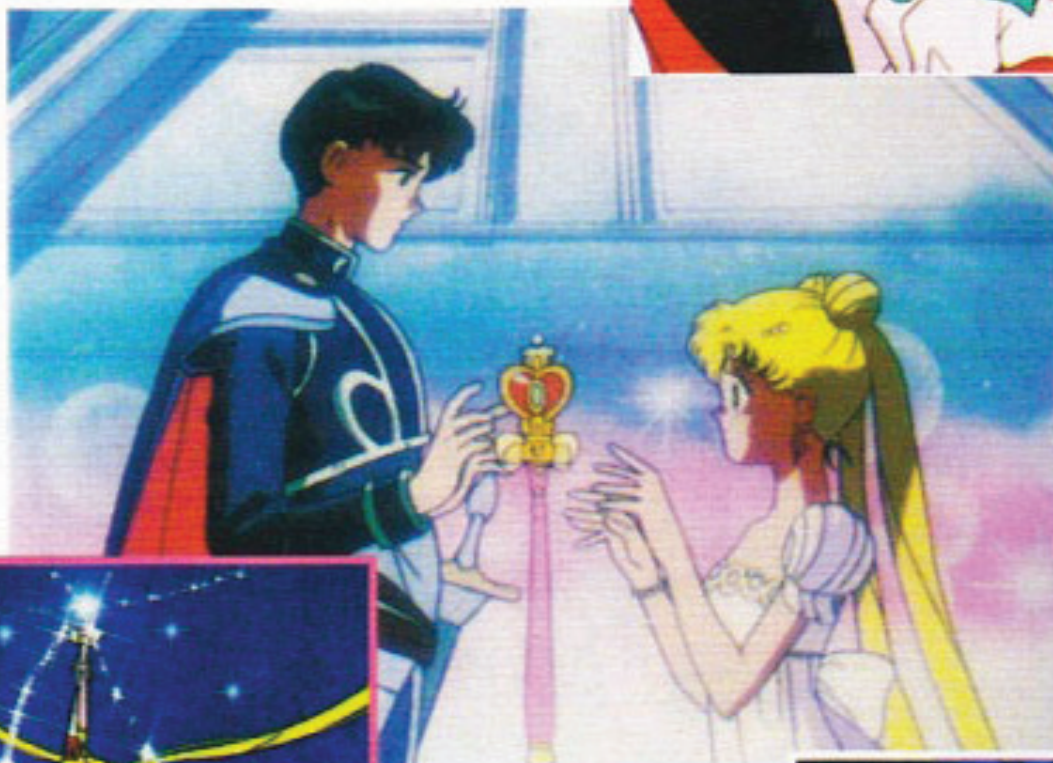

Tuxedo Mask is protecting the girl. However, without the Silver Crystal, Bunny cannot transform into Sailor Moon.

Suddenly, two figures appear. They, too, are interested in the pure Heart Crystal. They don't seem to be enemies - but who are they?

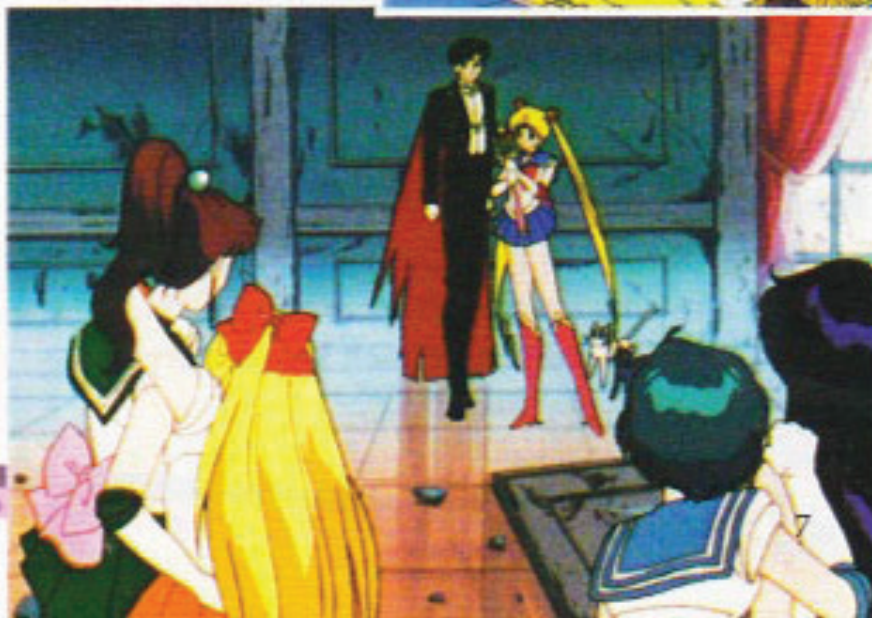

Without her powers, Bunny feels helpless. But when all seems lost, she is suddenly bathed in a bright light.

The Moon Princess receives new powers in the form of a new Scepter from the Moon Kingdom.

It has the power to return the crystal and restore life to the victims of the enemy. Still, the secret of the crystal remains untold, and the two mysterious warriors vanish without a trace.

Minako goes to the arcade to take her mind off her most recent failures at school. At least in video games, she is a champion.

Suddenly, a boy challenges her to a race. Bunny and Minako's hearts both skip a beat. Never before have they seen such a good-looking boy! However, Minako has an advantage since Bunny already has her Mamoru.

This is her chance! If she can beat him, he might take an interest in her and they could get to know each other.

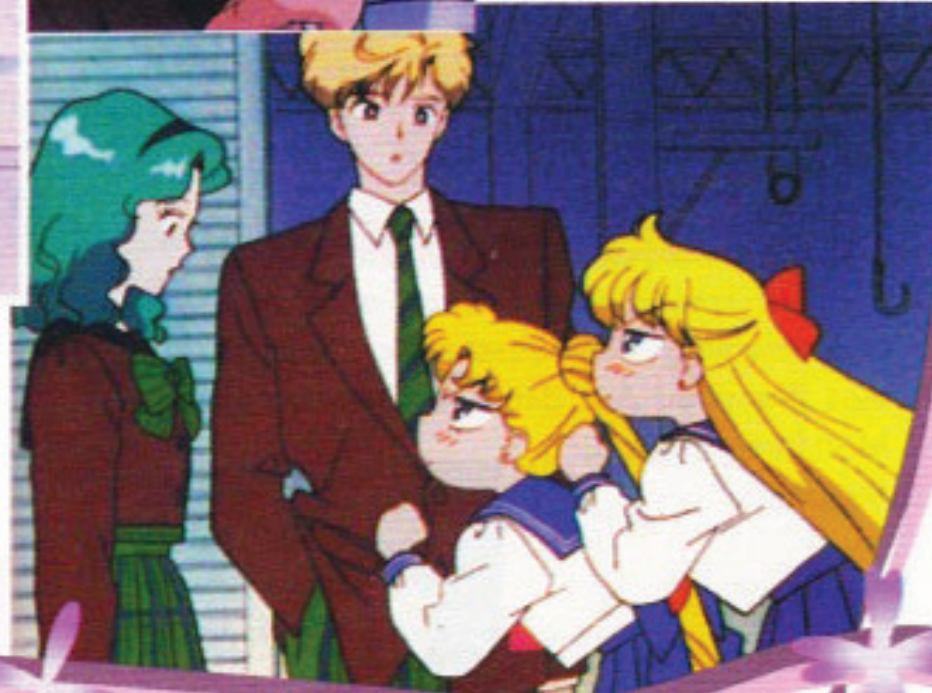

However, their race gets cut short. A girl turns up and calls out to the handsome stranger.

Good for Minako - she was about to lose the game. The boy and girl leave the arcade together. Is she his girlfriend?

Minako and Bunny follow them to a cafe where they are having tea. But they are spotted and confronted.

At least they learn the beautiful girl's name: Michiru.

Close by, the enemy strikes again. When Sailor Moon intervenes, two more warriors appear.

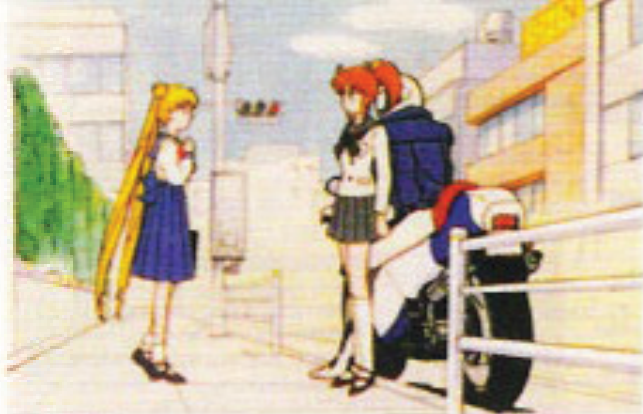

They, too, are Sailor Warriors, but it does not look like they want to associate with the others.

They only want to find three pure Heart Crystals. They don't care for friends or foes.

Another surprise is waiting for the five friends: the handsome blonde boy is a pretty blonde girl! So much for Minako's Prince Charming!

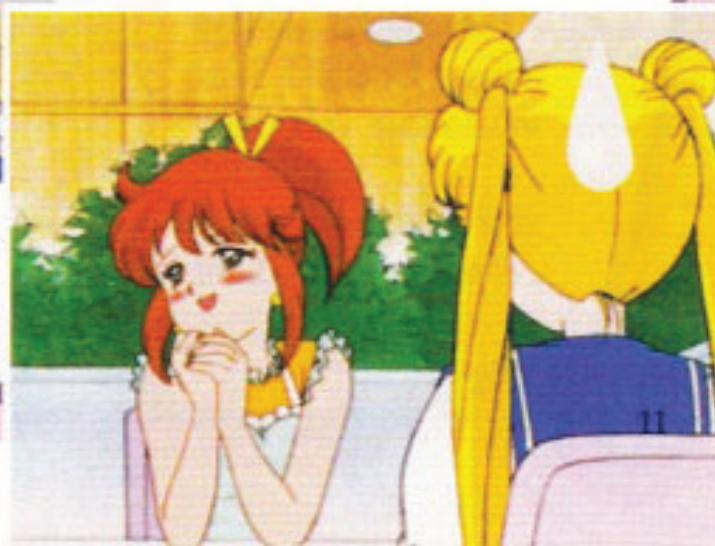

After school, Bunny visits her friend, Unazuki, who is working in a pastry shop nearby.

She is surprised to find Michiru and Haruka there, too, sitting at a table. Unazuki had also thought Haruka was a boy.

Unazuki confides her greatest wish to Bunny: to have her first kiss with a boy she really loves.

Then the enemy strikes again, stealing Unazuki's Heart Crystal. She may have a pure heart.

When Bunny and her friends find her unconscious and want to help her, Unazuki tries to kiss Makoto.

Ray stops Unazuki by hurling one of her paper amulets. Now, they have to get the crystal back. Sailor Moon takes action!

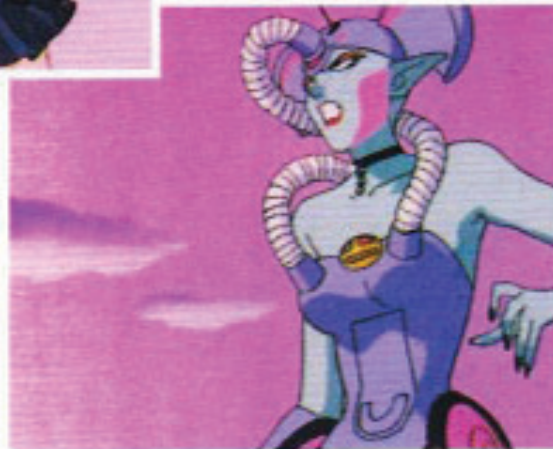

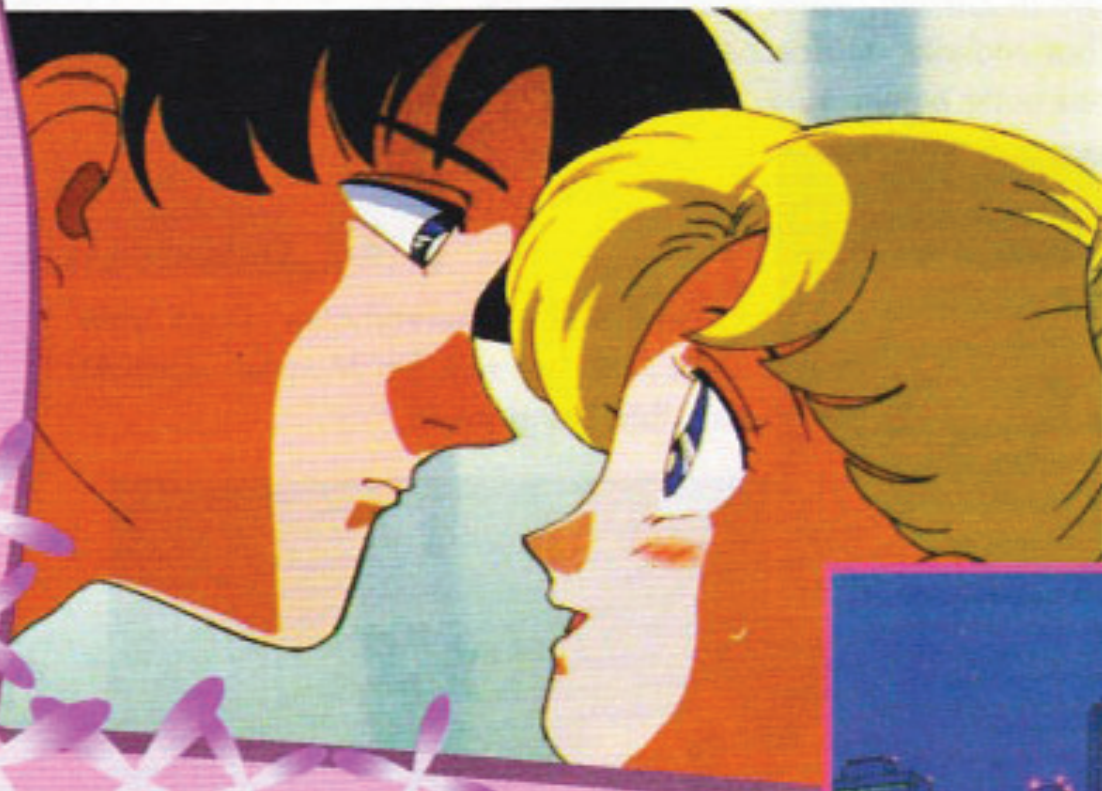

The mysterious Warriors Sailor Neptune and Sailor Uranus are looking for the enemy, too.

This much is clear: they would stop at nothing, and they would keep Unazuki's crystal, if it were the one they are after.

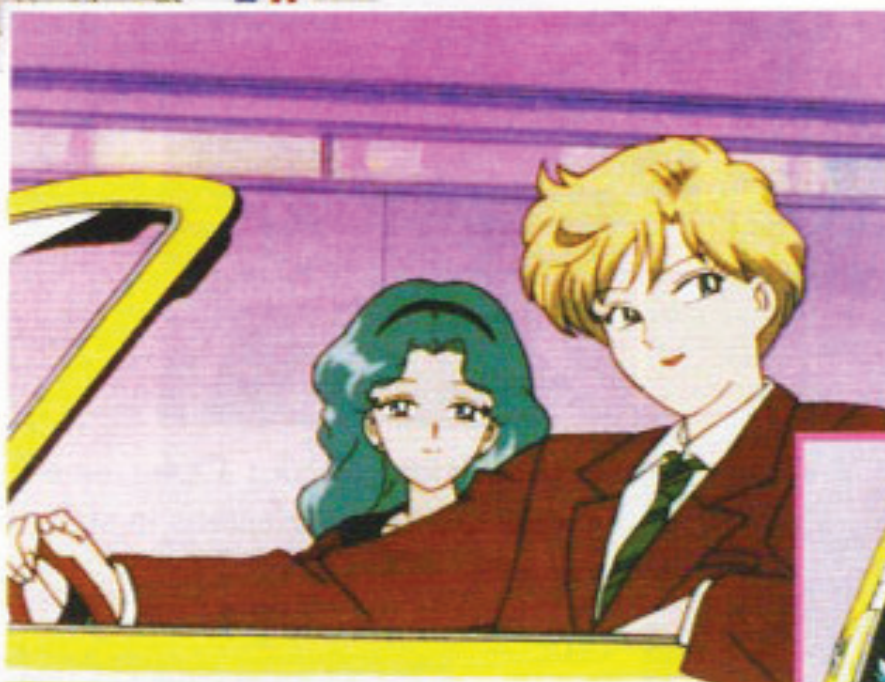

Fortunately, it isn't. Unazuki gets her heart back and can dream of her Prince Charming again. Speaking of kisses... What about Mamoru's first kiss? But Mamoru answers this question with silence.

Sailor Moon and Sailor Mercury manage to chase off the monster.

After all the excitement, Makoto just wants to go home. Haruka and Michiru offer her a ride.

Haruka has a driver's license. She and Michiru are older than the other Warriors, and they attend a different school.

When Makoto gets out of the car, she sees the monster from before again.

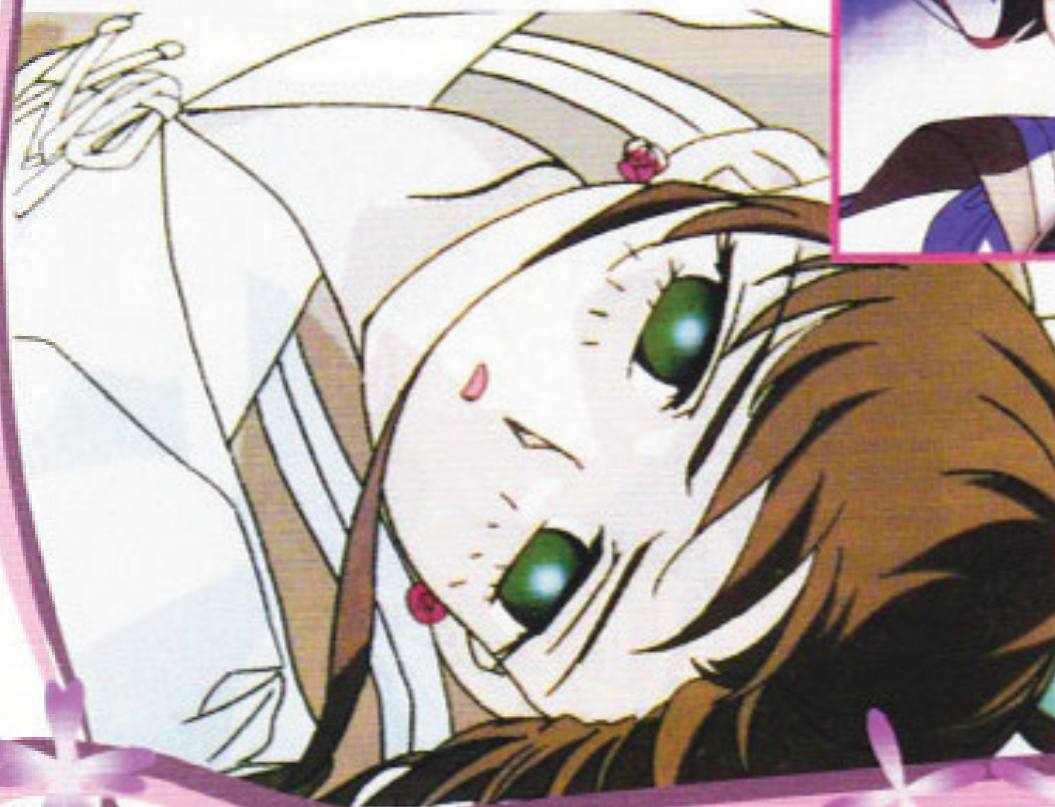

Fortunately, Haruka is still nearby. When she sees what is happening, she rushes to help Makoto. Sailor Neptune and Sailor Uranus have to stop the monster!

The monster wants to know if its victim is the owner of a pure Heart Crystal. Makoto is helpless.

Sailor Neptune and Uranus can only watch the monster stealing Makoto's heart.

If no one is going to help, Makoto might not get her heart back.

But Sailor Moon reclaims the crystal and saves Makoto - who immediately transforms into Sailor Jupiter.

The monster is defeated but the question remains: who are those two mysterious warriors?

Why was the crystal more important to them than a human life? Sailor Uranus does not answer this question. The others may be right, but she has to complete a mission, and nothing will stop her from reaching her goal, no matter what.

Makoto thanks Haruka for her help. She is convinced that Haruka and Michiru are their friends, even if no one knows their true identities.

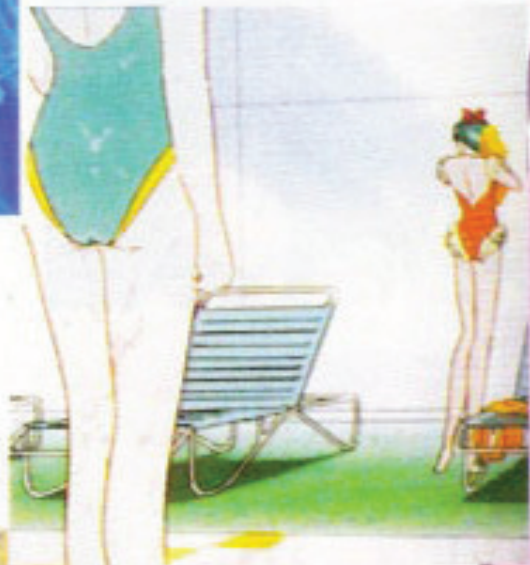

Amy is in a pinch. She is pondering whether she really wants to become a doctor and how much she will have to study for that.

Mamoru encourages her. Anything you do is right as long as you put your heart into it.

To take her mind off things, Amy goes to the swimming pool where she finds Michiru. Michiru is an incredibly fast swimmer, and she beats Amy in a race.

This is not exactly a boost for her battered confidence. Even Bunny cannot cheer her up.

Translator's Note: it's "Ami" not "Amy" in the German manga/dub, although they pronounce it like the english "Amy".

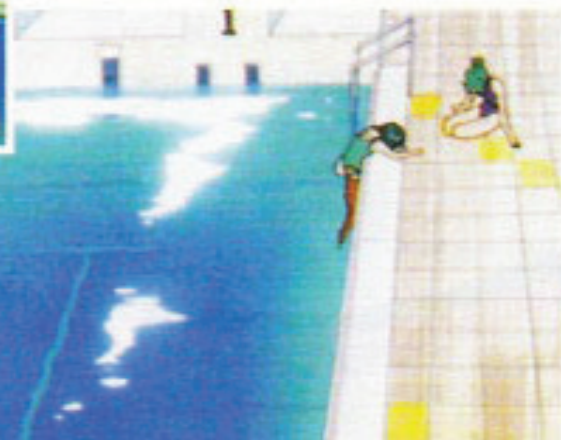

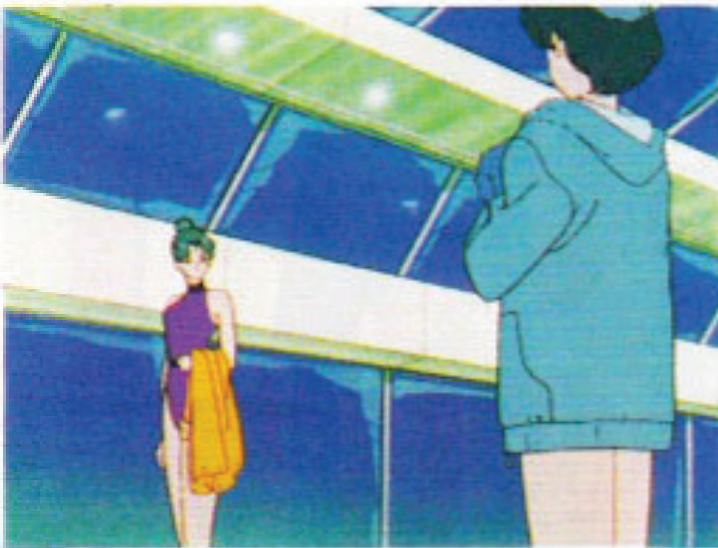

Amy wants to be alone. Everything seems bleak. What's the point of studying all the time?

Maybe she just wants to prove to herself that there is something she's really good at. Amy goes to the pool once more.

Again, she runs into Michiru working out. She challenges her to another race, and she loses again. Amy admires Michiru for her speed.

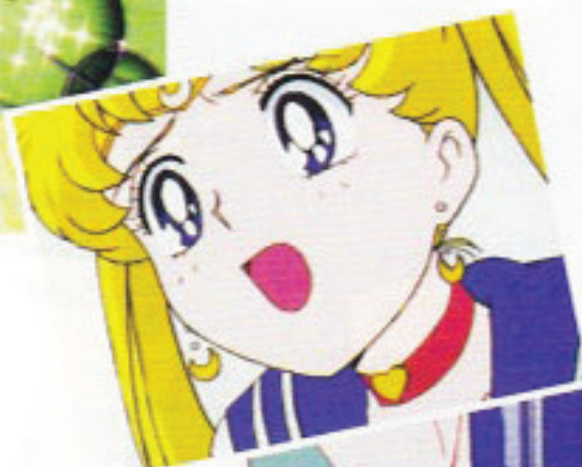

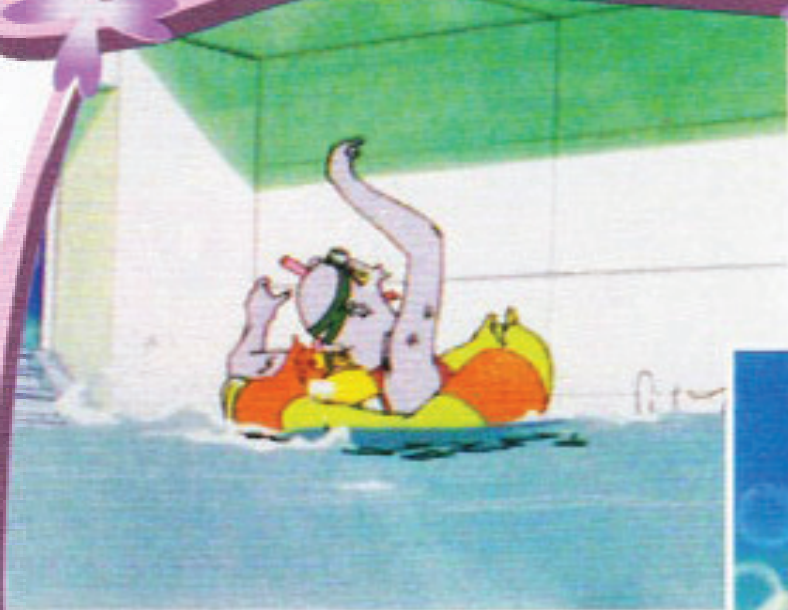

While Michiru and Haruka leave the pool, Amy must accept that challenges like that will not help her.

When she is all alone in the pool, an even tougher test is awaiting her: now of all times, a monster is out to get her!

Sailor Moon senses the danger and rushes to the rescue. But she is too late. The enemy managed to steal Amy's heart and enclosed her in a vortex.

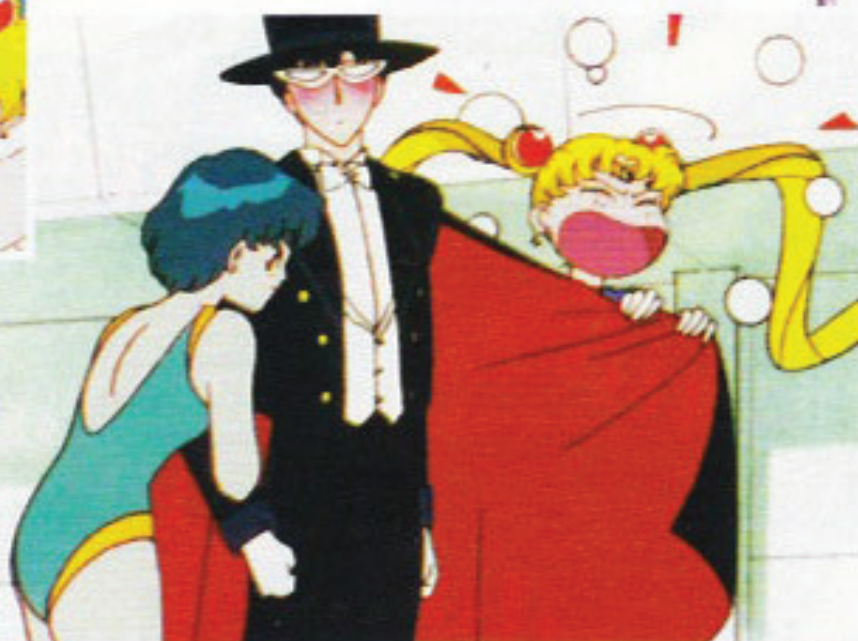

But her crystal is not the one they want. With the help of Tuxedo Mask, Sailor Moon can defeat the enemy.

Sailor Moon returns Amy's heart crystal and frees her from the vortex. Amy thanks her...

...and Tuxedo Mask. Mamoru was right: Anything you do is right as long as you put your heart into it!

Hey! Why are those two suddenly so intimate? Bunny is fuming with jealousy.

*Sailor Neptune
&
Sailor Uranus*

Michiru

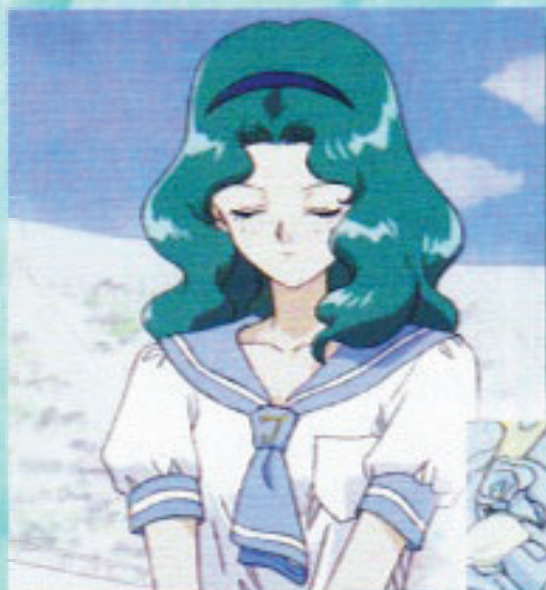

This is Sailor Neptune, one of the two Warriors from the outer solar system. Both Sailor Warriors command strong powers, and they do not belong to Sailor Moon's troop. Michiru comes and goes without revealing her true identity - not even to her comrades in battle. Her only objective is to complete the mission she has been entrusted with.

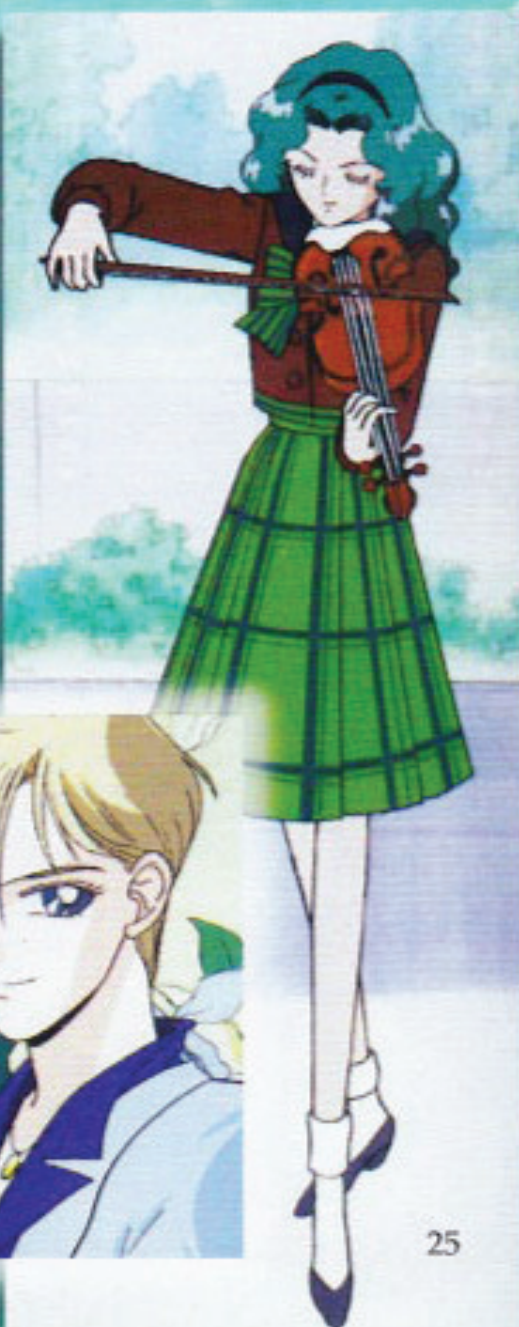

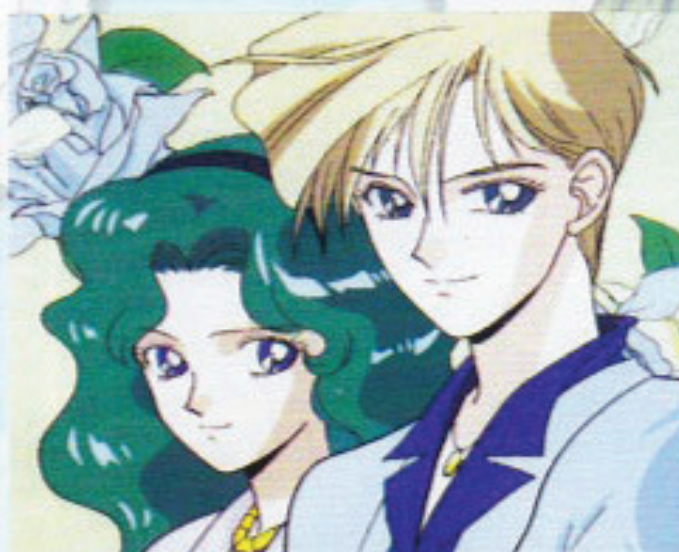

Sailor Neptune's secret identity is hidden behind the friendly and feminine Michiru. She is a few years older than Sailor Moon and her group. She is an excellent violinist, having performed at concerts since childhood, and she is a talented painter.

The only person really close to her seems to be her friend, Haruka. The two of them are always together.

The Violent Storms of Neptune

Sailor Neptune's most powerful attack is The Violent Storms of Neptune. Her guardian planet is Neptune, and from it she gains the powers of water - her favourite element. When battling the enemy, her most effective weapons are vortices and waves as high as a house.

translator's note: The German manga and anime never used that. Instead, both used "Neptun - flieg!" or "Neptun - sieg!" (literally: "Neptune - fly!" and "Neptune - triumph!").

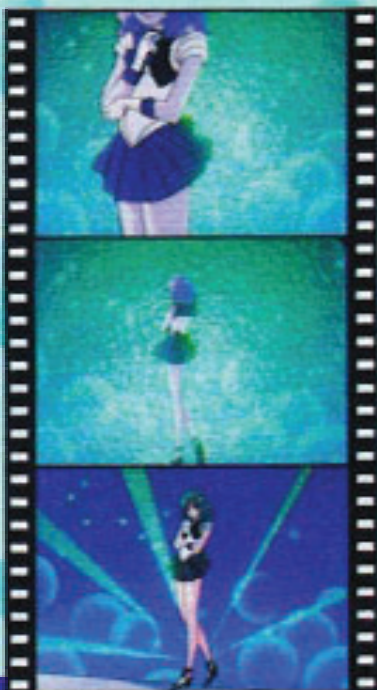

Sailor Neptune

Initially, she seems to be a rival to the Sailor Warriors because she rather hampers the others and obviously seems to approve the death of a friend, as long as she can get a Pure Heart Crystal. Ever since she chose to be a warrior, Michiru sacrifices all her life to complete the mission she is entrusted with. Much later, the crystals will reveal a secret to her: there is a crystal hidden in her heart, too!

Like all the other Warriors, Sailor Neptune was once a denizen of the Moon Kingdom and one of the guardians in Serenity's palace.

She has no recollection of her past life. That is why she does not recognise Sailor Moon as her ruler, and is waging her own war against everyone who gets in the way of her quest for the pure Heart Crystals. The only one she trusts blindly is Sailor Uranus.

Sailor Uranus' story is closely linked to Sailor Neptune's. Without her, Haruka might never have become a warrior.

Whenever the enemy looks for a crystal in a stolen heart, Sailor Neptune and Sailor Uranus are on the scene. They want to check if the stolen crystal is one of the ones they are looking for. If it isn't, they do everything to return it to its rightful owner.

To win her as an ally, Michiru told Haruka about her mission. At first, Haruka did not believe her story and was not willing to fight for something that did not concern her. However, in the end, Michiru managed to convince her that only the two of them, together, would be able to prevent the downfall of mankind. That was when Haruka became Sailor Uranus, and now there is no way back for her.

Sailor Uranus

The Explosions of Uranus

Sailor Uranus' planet is the giant Uranus, of course. Its elements are those of fire and lightning. Her powers originate from this planet. By her fighting style you can tell its influence, too. Her most dangerous attack is The Explosions of Uranus, which resembles a small earthquake.

Translator's note: the German manga and anime never used that. Instead, both used "Uranus - flieg!" (literally: "Uranus - fly!").

On Earth, she is the rather masculine Haruka. Because of her boyish looks and resolute personality people often mistake her for a boy. She is fond of engines of all kind, and she competes in motorcycle races.

Haruka enjoys driving long distances in her car. Before she became a Sailor Warrior, she used to be an outstanding long distance runner.

Haruka

The influence of the planet Uranus leads to her being a bit brusque and farouche. However, she is a good friend that not only Michiru can rely on. Whenever the other Warriors need help, she is always on hand with help and advice.

Intermezzo

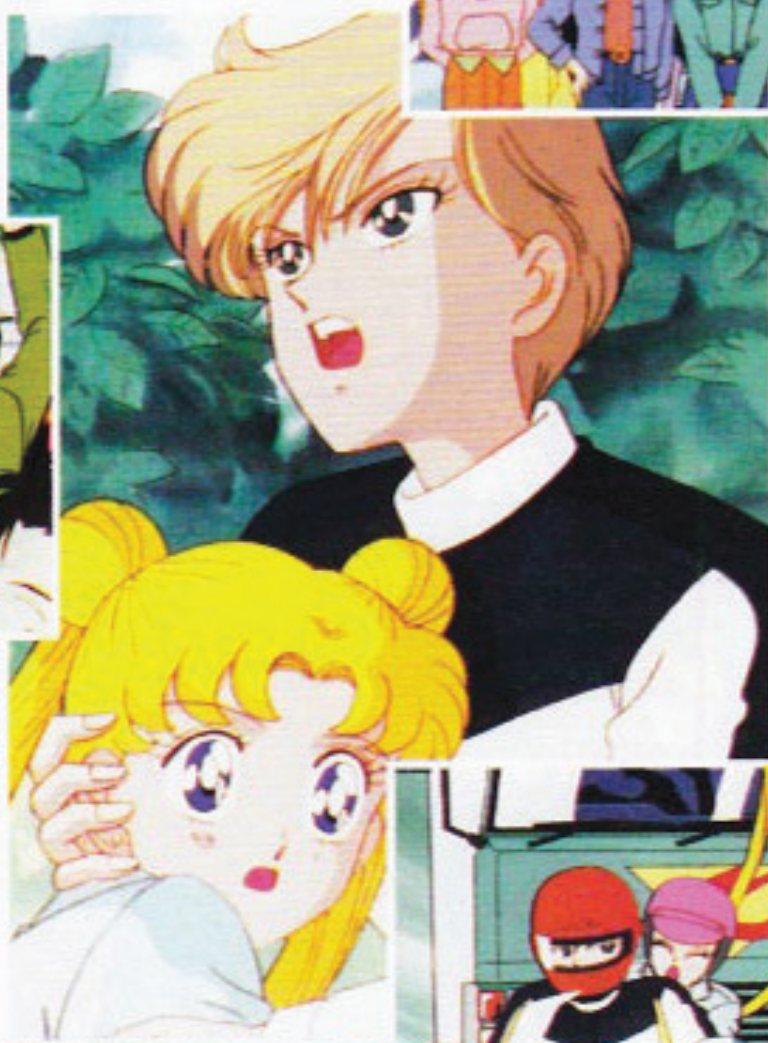

Part 2

THE TRAP

Haruka is competing in a motorcycle race, and Bunny, Mamoru, and their friends are among the spectators. As usual, Haruka finishes first. Some people who think women should not ride motorcycles get angry.

Bunny forgot her bag at the race track. When she goes back to fetch it, she sees Haruka being harassed by some rowdies.

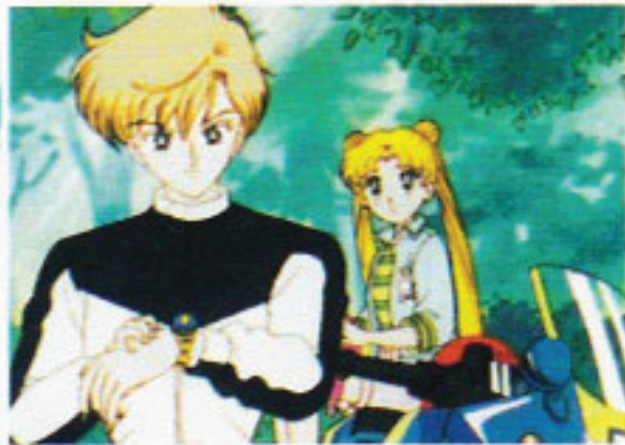

Haruka is used to situations like this. She protects Bunny when the guys are about to come at her, too.

Professor Tomoe's monsters appear on the racetrack. They are looking for the crystals that can be found in pure hearts. Michiru transforms and attacks them.

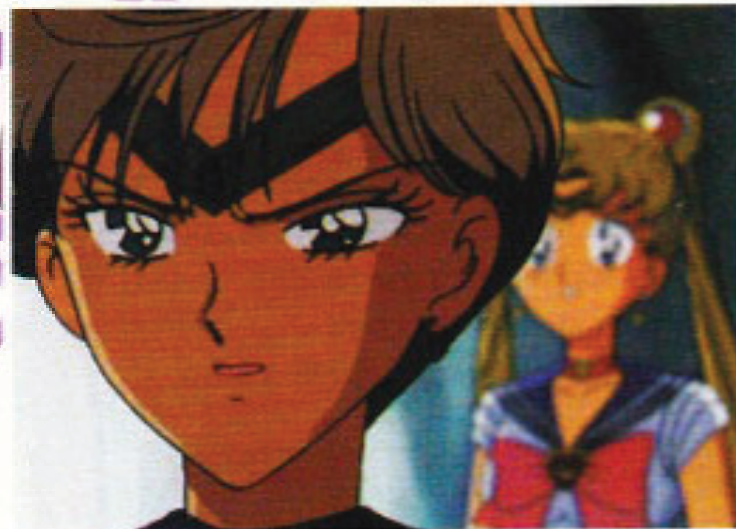

Through her transmitter, Haruka learns of the danger Michiru is in. She dashes off... leaving behind a puzzled Bunny behind who does not know about Haruka's identity as a Sailor Warrior.

For Haruka, it's a piece of cake to defeat the monsters. However, before they retreat, they manage to capture Sailor Neptune.

Only now can Bunny transform into Sailor Moon and join the fight. She isn't very effective, though!

In order to keep her civilian identity a secret, Sailor Uranus does nothing to rescue Sailor Neptune. Bunny can't understand this.

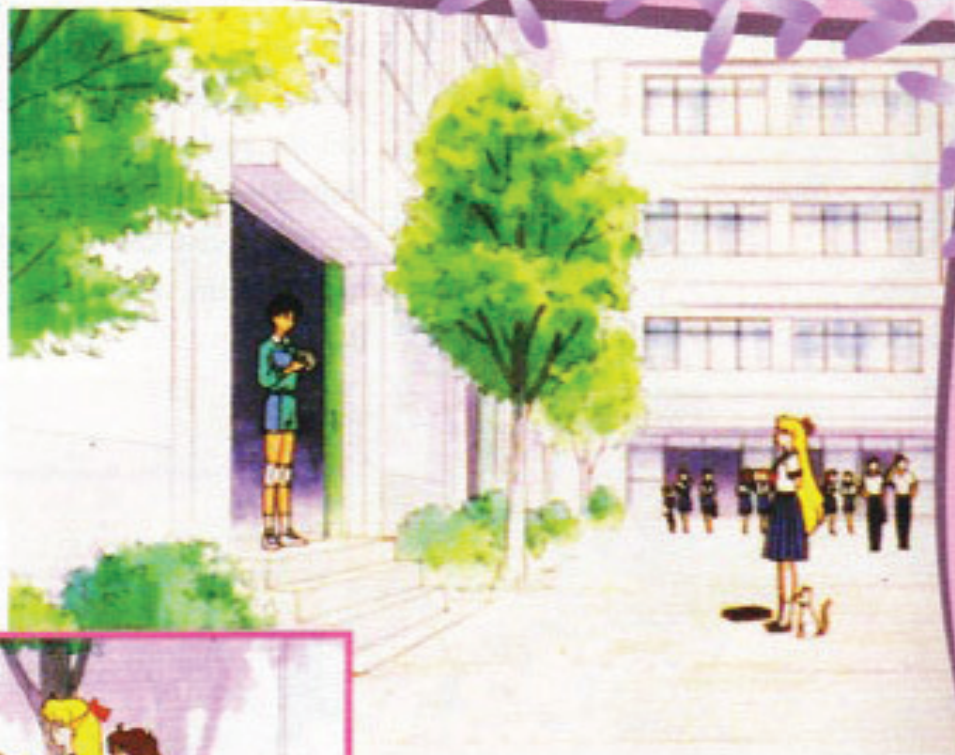

Sailor Uranus explains that her mission is even more important than her own life. When the enemy attacks again, Sailor Moon and Sailor Uranus combine their powers and manage to defeat their foe. Sailor Neptune is saved.

When this adventure is over, Sailor Moon does not know what to make of Haruka. What can her "mission" be?

At school,
Minako often sees carefree girls untroubled
by the life of a Sailor Warrior.

Wouldn't it be nice to have a boyfriend and live without having to play hide-and-seek all the time?
Minako wants to be a normal girl.

On her way to school, she passes the gymnasium where she used to play volleyball. She stops and talks with team captain Tsutomu about the good old times.

Back then, Minako used to have a crush on Tsutomu. Since he is so friendly, she hopes that he still likes her. She is reluctant to talk to the other Sailor Warriors about her problems. After all, they are all in the same boat.

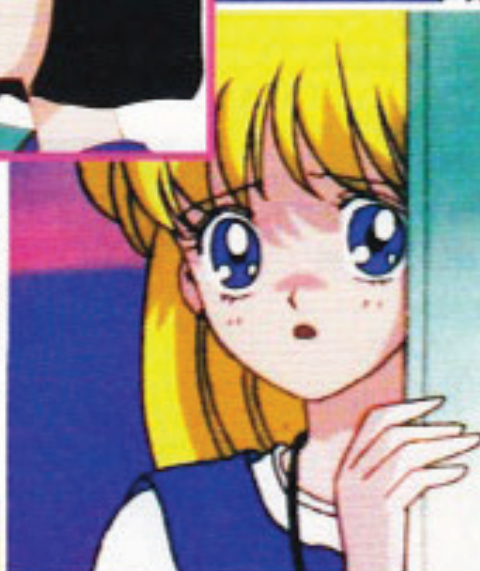

Haruka can sense that Minako is troubled by something. She gets her to talk about Tsutomu. Minako decides to take Haruka's advice and make the first move. Otherwise, she might regret it later.

Her heart beating wildly, Minako returns to the gym.
However...

...Tsutomu is not alone. It is obvious that he and the pretty girl are a couple.

Well, she might have guessed.
After such a long time, he must have forgotten about her.

Suddenly, her gloomy thoughts are disrupted by an explosion - a monster's doing. Watch out!

Minako's fellow Sailor Warriors rush to help her. Together, they recapture the pure Heart Crystal the monster took from Tsutomu.

Sailor Venus joins the fight. When Tsutomu's heart is in danger of shattering on the ground, she catches it just in time. She performs one of Minako's trademark volleyball jumps. Later, Tsutomu asks Minako to give his thanks to Sailor Venus. Does he suspect something?

Oh well, she still has Artemis. She can always rely on him!

Today is Bunny's birthday! But it looks like everyone forgot. For crying out loud - literally!

Bunny sees a pair of gorgeous green shoes in a shop window. Wouldn't that be the perfect birthday present from Mamoru! However, he too seems to have forgotten her birthday and doesn't even congratulate her.

Fuming, Bunny slaps him and runs off.

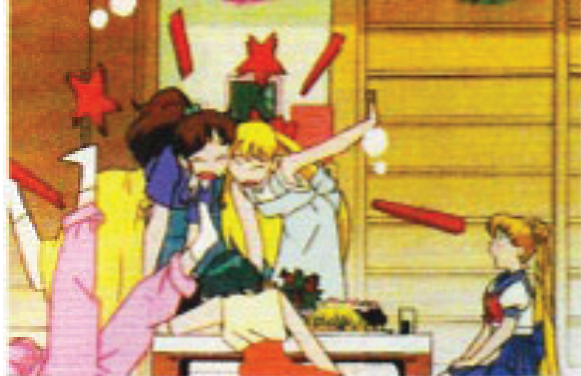

Bunny is devastated. Is her birthday really unimportant to her friends? Wrapped in gloomy thoughts, she doesn't even notice Michiru and Haruka. In the evening, Bunny goes over to Ray's temple where the Warriors arranged a meeting.

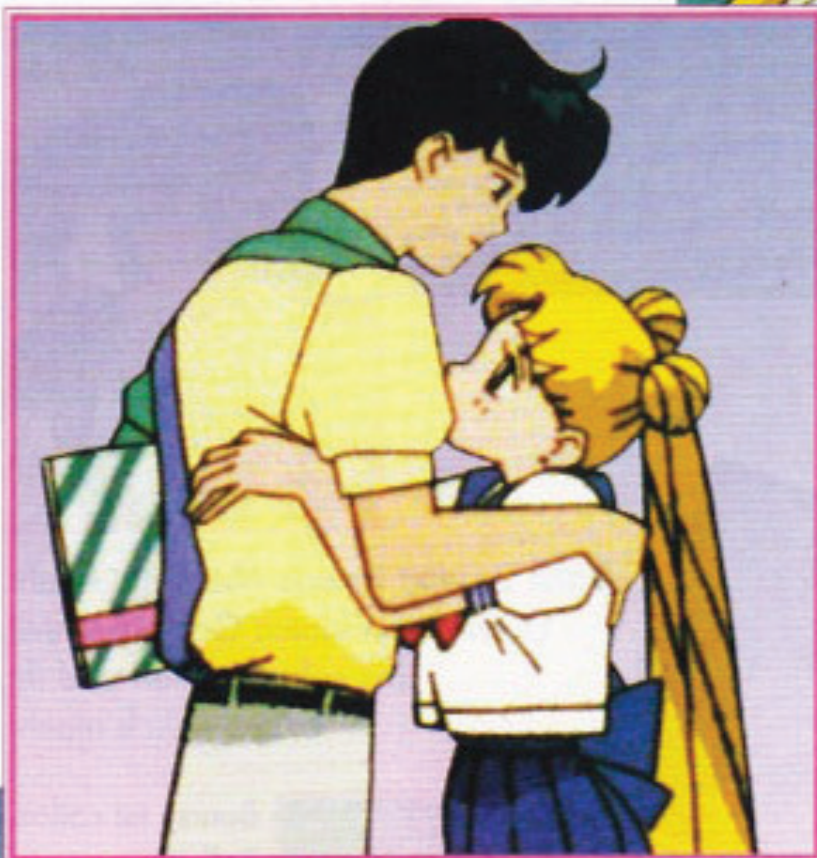

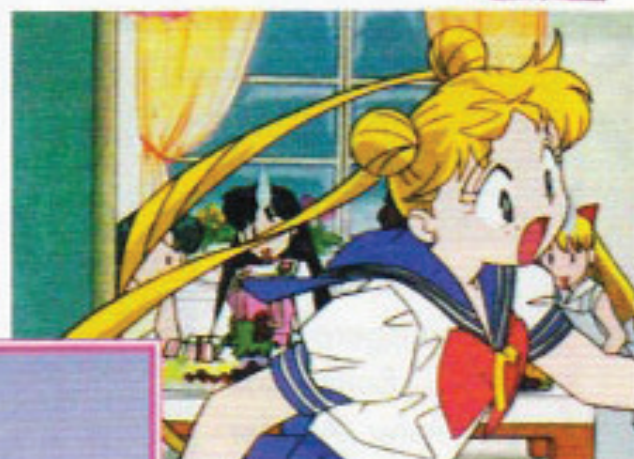

When she arrives, she cannot believe her eyes. All her friends have gathered!

They didn't forget her. Bunny is ashamed of having doubted her friends.

The biggest surprise is still waiting to happen...

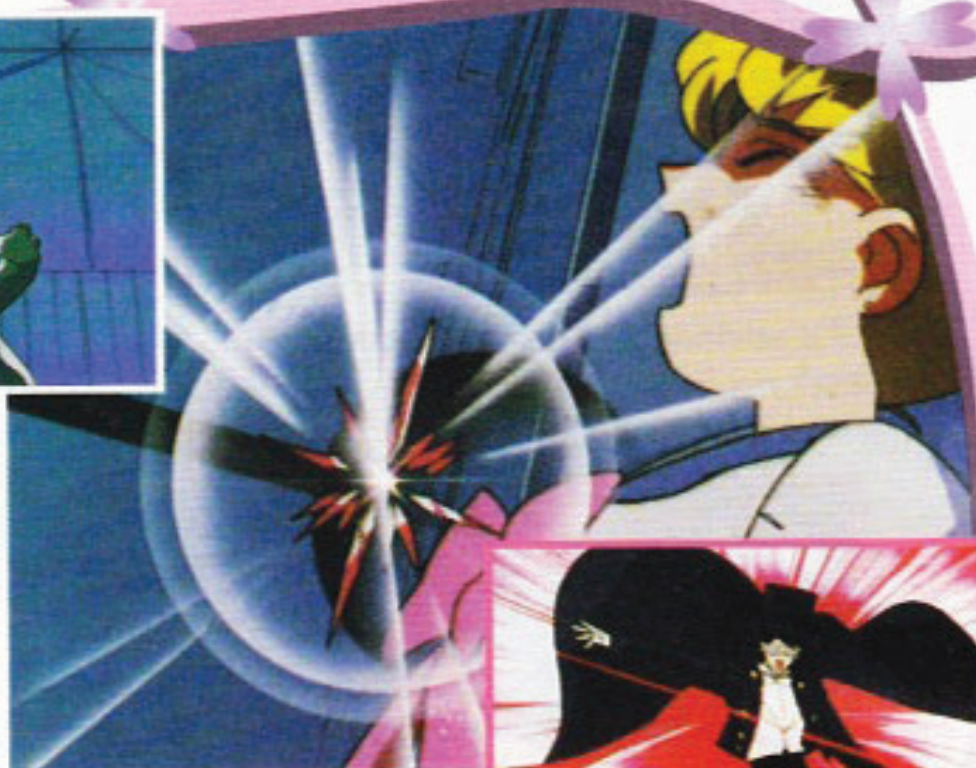

Mamoru! How stupid of Bunny to be angry with him since she hadn't even told him her birthday! For a present he got her the gorgeous green shoes she liked so much.

However, the happy scene gets disrupted by an attack by their foes.

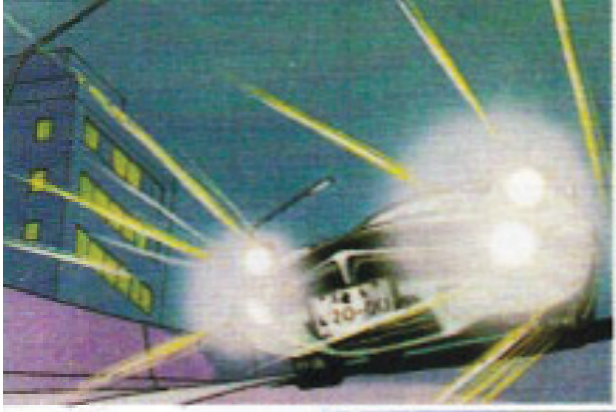

This time, they are going for Bunny, of all people. Just when the enemy is about to steal her crystal, Tuxedo Mask appears. The birthday girl is saved!

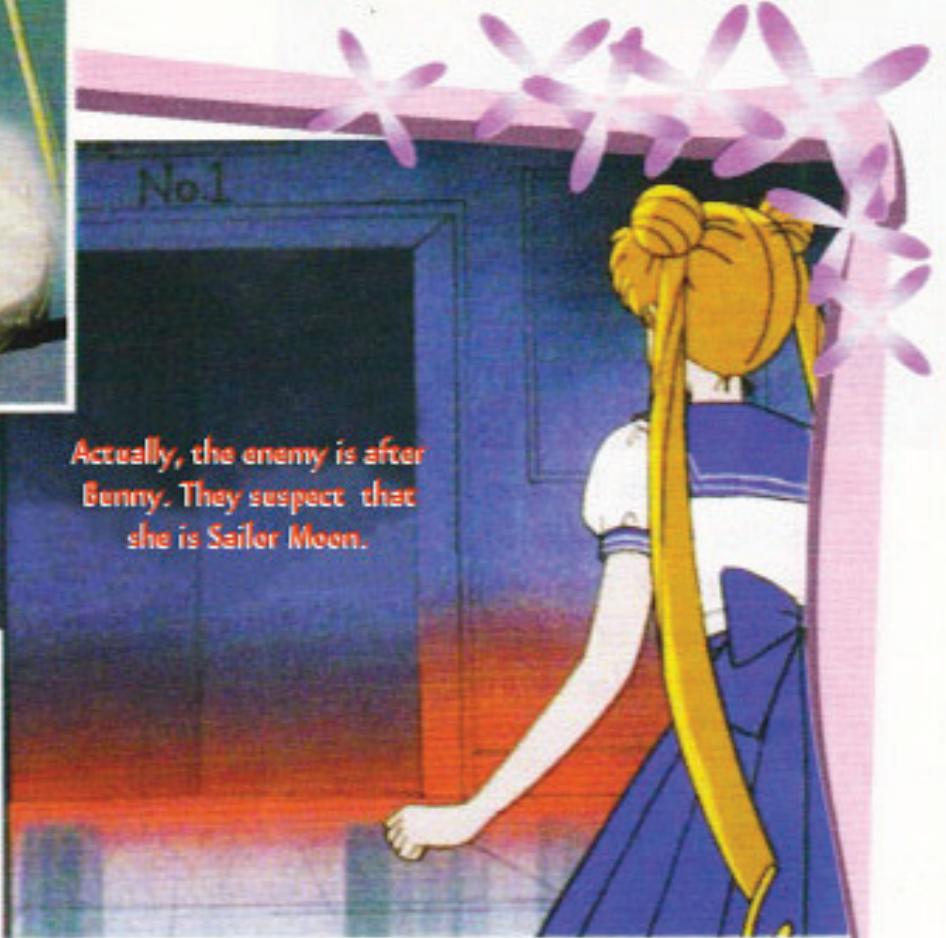

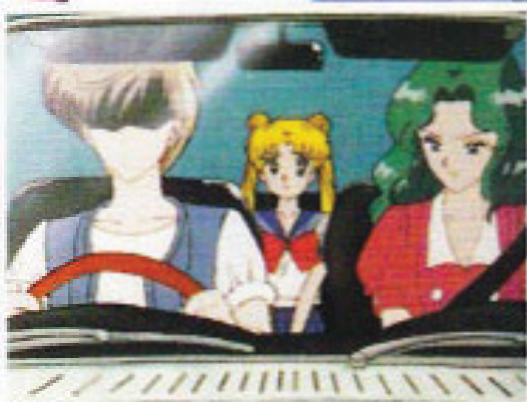

But now, Tuxedo Mask is in danger. He is caught in a cloud of gas that freezes and immobilizes him.

What is Bunny to do? Even if she could transform in front of their enemy, that would not be of much use.

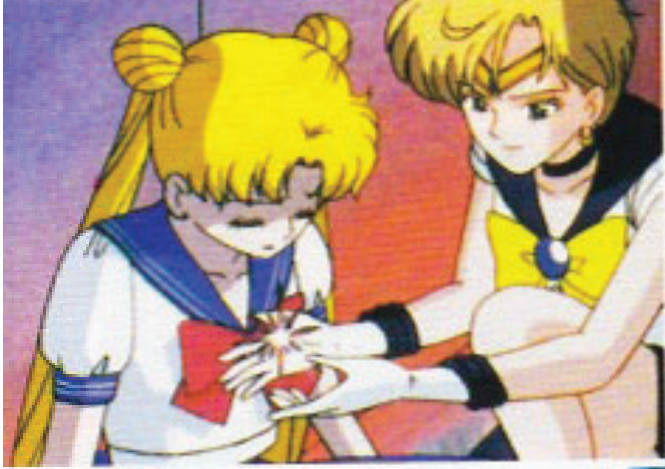

Actually, the enemy is after Bunny. They suspect that she is Sailor Moon.

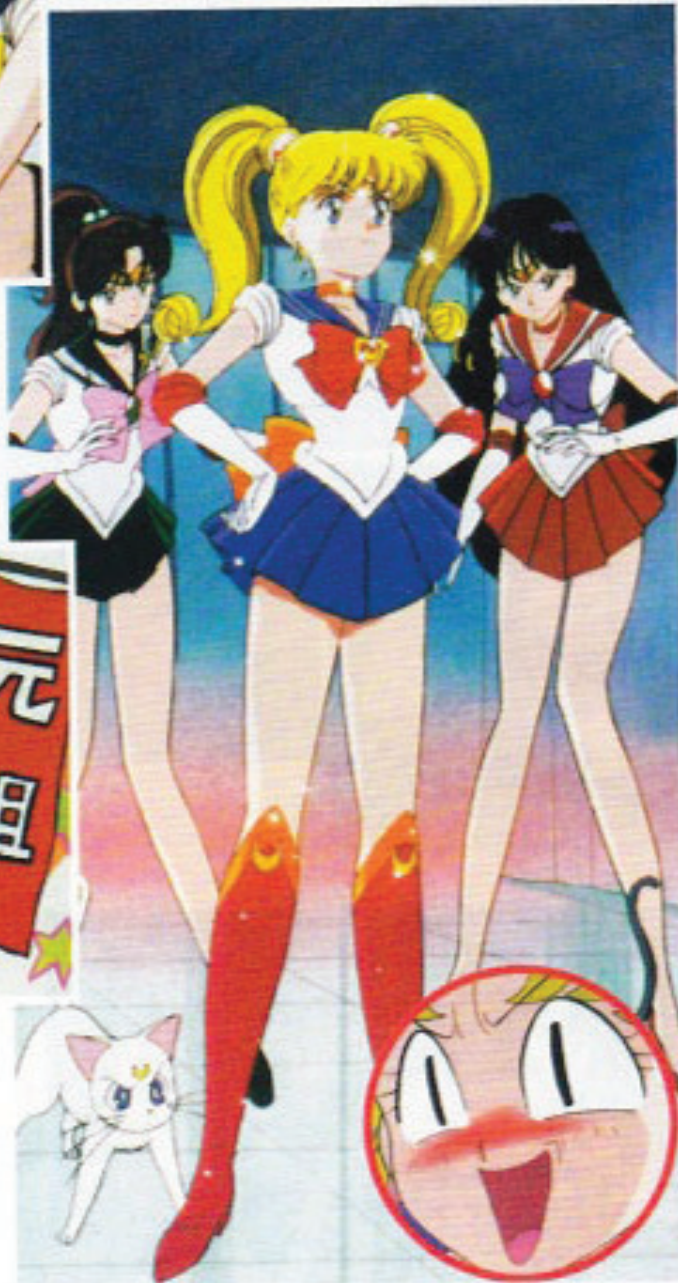

Bunny must give her all to rescue Tuxedo Mask - even if it puts her crystal in danger of being stolen. What matters is that Tuxedo Mask's life is saved. The other Warriors stand ready to help, in case something might go wrong.

It is imperative that they can convince the enemy that Bunny is not Sailor Moon. They have to think of something - fast!

Sailor Neptune and Sailor Uranus are relieved, too, that it is not one of the crystals they are looking for. They return Bunny's heart.

And now, a new Sailor Moon enters the stage! Minako has disguised herself as Sailor Moon to confuse the enemy. Even Bunny is amazed by the resemblance.

Luna tells Bunny to take advantage of the general confusion.

Bunny transforms into Sailor Moon and frees Tuxedo Mask. Now, they can battle the enemy together.

The Sailor Warriors combine their powers. This interplanetary force proves too much for their enemy. The Sailor Warriors have saved the Earth - again!

At long last, Bunny can celebrate her birthday - together with all her friends... and Mamoru of course!

SAILOR MOON™

COCKTAIL PARTY

HELLO MY FRIENDS!
HOW ABOUT A COCKTAIL PARTY WHERE YOU CAN SERVE SOME SUPER DELICIOUS COCKTAILS? HERE ARE A FEW SIMPLE RECIPES AND A SHOPPING LIST!

Start with laying out ready all necessary ingredients for your cocktails:

INGREDIENTS

Bananas

Slices of fruit
(for decoration)

Strawberries
(fresh or frozen)

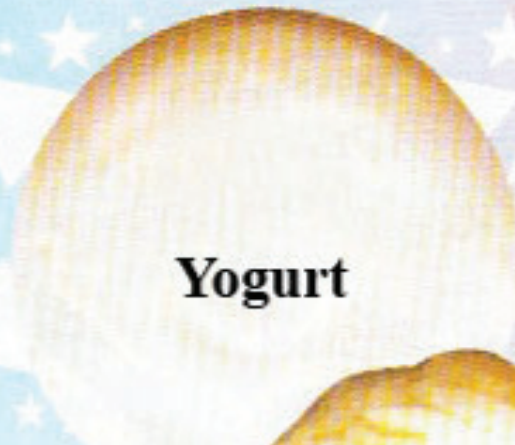

Milk

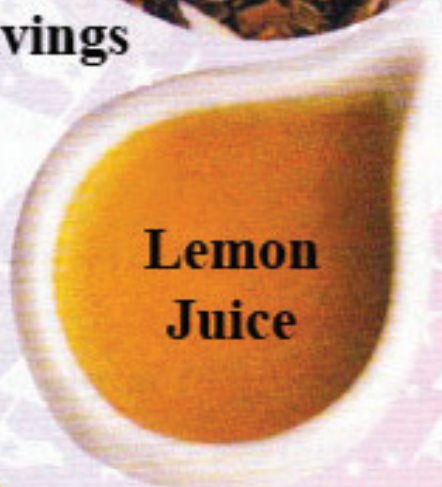

Honey

Chocolate Shavings

Yogurt

Lemon Juice

Vanilla Ice Cream

Cocoa Powder

IF YOU CANNOT HAVE A REAL PARTY AT THE MOMENT, YOU CAN JUST ENJOY YOUR COCKTAILS WHILE WATCHING TV OR CHILLING ON THE PORCH. THICK STRAWS ARE A MUST FOR COCKTAILS!

LET'S HAVE A PARTY!

PREPARING THE FRUIT~

1. Peel fruit and cut it up. Strawberries are cut in half. (Don't forget to thaw first, if frozen!)
2. Put fruit in a big bowl and use a fork to mash into a creamy puree.

BANANA SHAKE

Add $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of milk and $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of yogurt to the banana puree. Instead of bananas, you can use strawberries to make a strawberry shake!

Now, add 2 tablespoonful of vanilla ice-cream and 1 tablespoonful of honey. Stir vigorously until the mixture is smooth and frothy. It's easier to use a blender. For decoration, place some slices of fruit on the straw.

CHOCOLATE DREAM

Stir 1 tablespoonful of sweetened cocoa powder, and 2 tablespoonful of vanilla ice-cream into 2 cups of milk. Stir vigorously. Use chocolate flakes for decoration.

LEMON MIX

Mix 1 cup of orange juice with $\frac{1}{2}$ cup of lemon juice in a glass. Sweeten to taste with 1 or 2 spoonful of sugar. Place slices of orange or lemon on the rim for decoration. Serve chilled!

HALLOWEEN

ANYTHING CAN HAPPEN IN THIS SPOOKY NIGHT... AND NOT ALL GHOSTS VISITING US ON HALLOWEEN ARE FRIENDLY! BUT YOU CAN DO SOMETHING TO WARD OFF ANY UNPLEASANT SURPRISES:

CARVE A PUMPKIN!

FIRST, LAY OUT READY ALL YOU NEED TO PREPARE THIS WARD AGAINST GHOSTS:

A TABLESPOON,

A SHARP KNIFE,

A FLASHLIGHT,

AND A BIG PUMPKIN.

TAKE CARE NOT TO CUT
YOURSELF
WHILE CARVING!
MAYBE YOU'LL WANT TO
ASK AN ADULT FOR HELP?

FIRST, CUT A LID FROM THE PUMPKIN IN A
ZIGZAG LINE
(SEE ILLUSTRATION 2).

TAKE CARE NOT TO BREAK THE EDGES
OFF OF THE LID.
YOU WILL NEED THEM LATER!

USE THE SPOON TO SCRAPE THE SEEDS OUT OF THE PUMPKIN.

TIP: WITH A BIT OF SALT,
ROASTED PUMPKIN
SEEDS ARE VERY TASTY!

NEXT, CUT 3
TRIANGLES INTO THE PUMPKIN FOR EYES AND NOSE, AND A BROAD, IRREGULARLY SHAPED MOUTH.

FINALLY, PLACE A FLASHLIGHT
IN THE PUMPKIN TO MAKE THE OPENINGS IN
THE FACE LIGHT UP, AND PUT THE LID BACK ON.
PLACE THE LIT-UP
PUMPKIN ON YOUR WINDOWSILL.

NOW, YOU CAN SLEEP
PEACEFULLY! NO EVIL
GHOST WILL DARE TO ENTER YOUR ROOM.
